W. C. WHITTHORNE, of Maury. For State Senator.

THOS. F. P. ALLISON, of Williamson The President's family have gone to Long Branch to spend the summer in their "cottage by the sea."

It is currently reported in Giles that an intelligent and fascinating widow of that county, is to be marri ed to Hon. Mr. WILSON, Senator from Massachusetts, and candidate for President on the GRANT ticket.

THE Democratic State Executive Committee met at Nashville on the 19th, and unanimously resolved to call a State Convention to meet at Nashville on the 21st day of August, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress for the State at large, and also to select an additional Presidential elector for the State at large. Gen. Cheatham has signified his willingness to submit to the decision of the Convention.

Josten, the German charged with the murder of Mrs. HAMBLIN, near Nashvilie, last year, was tried in Franklin this week. The evidence is entirely circumstantial, and of such a nature as to lead those who heard it to believe that it was not sufficient to convict him. The case was given to the jury Wednesday, but we have been unable to learn whether or not they have rendered a verdict. Ex-Governor FOOTE, JAS A. QUARLES, and some of the most prominent members of the Franklin Bir, were engaged in the case.

Since above was in type we have learned that the jury have returned a verdict of not guilty, and the prisoner has been dismissed. The poor fellow could not speak English, but was completely over joyed when told his acquital through a German inter-

He made a valuable Congressman, and at the same time has established an enviable reputation as a ready debater upon the difficult and perplexing matters of national legislation He was place by common consent on important committees by his party, and by the Speaker of the House. The following article taken from the Homestead Cham pion, published in Washington, will show how our talented representative is regarded by impartial observers at the national Capital: "W. C. A bold and uncompromising Democrat, he has always been feared by the monopolists on account of his relentless opposition to corporations, rings, banks, and subsidies. In his profession as an advocate he is accorded a very high rank, and in the Congress of the United States he has already taken a prominent position. All his speeches are marked with prudence, and show that he takes great interest in the people whose representative heais. Close attention to business, fine executive ability, good and exemplary deportment, all contribute to secure him the respect of his associates and to make him a useful member of Congress.

He believes that the government was made for man, and not man for the government; that all public officers, from the President of the United States to the alderman of the "seven-by-nine" city, are but the mere agents of the people, possessed of no aut ority except such as is delegated to them; that labor alone is wealth, and that the laboring masses are the on y sources in the government. There are many more facts of like nature into which we hope they will ook before settling this important question of text books for Southern plan for five years, I will be amply hildren. This attempt to keep our authors out of our schools, is regarded by us in the same light of an a prime white in the market. attempt to displace our teachers and fill their places with northerners. Here is Mr. C.'s retraction:

Here is Mr. C.'s retraction:

"In December, 1871, the undersigned, as Secretary of the Bedford County Board of Education, addressed an article to its members headed, 'University School Books,' publishing it in this paper, in which statements were made reflecting upon Rev. C. D. Elliott, 'General' Agent, C. B. Richardson and Gen. John B. Gordon, Vice Presidents, and containing other statements in regard to the origin of the U. P. Company, which did it much injury. In the article I offered space, gratuitously, for a vindication of the Company against charges, if unjust.

"The Rev. C. D. Elliott, as before mentioned, has visited me, and, in the presence of mutual friends, has made explanations, and expressed his regrets for any cause of offence, and the matter between us is amicably settled.

"General Gordon has addressed me courcitizens of the count in the matter. W. S. Pennington, D. W. Peeler, Geo. C. Gordon, Wm. S. McBride, H. H. Rasor, R. Wright, J. F. Gray, eral Gordon has addressed me courcously and in keeping with the spirit of a lignified, Southern gentlemen, and a Chris-ian, such as I now have the best assurance hat he is. His friends have written and tian, such as I now have the best assurance that he is. His friends have written and visited me in regard to the matter, and I have not been hasty in regarding the justice of this refutation. The people of Georgia in actually electing him Governor showed not only their partiality for, but thereby endorsed him in a manner worthy all that is claimed by his friends.

"Gen. S. B. Buckner, whose noble conduct at the surrender of Fort Bonelson, of itself, commends him to the esteem of all good people, is Richardson's successor. Friends to the company claim that Richardson is not responsible for the sentiments in the suring the war, a conservative, and further, that he was on friendly and intimate terms with Gen. R. E. Lee, the this as it may I do not justify him, nor do I think him worthy of Scuthern patronage. I feel it due to Gen. Gordon and others to say that we differ on this point. Richardson still owns, perhaps, a good interest in the Company, but he is no longer an officer.

"As regards the books, I have neither said nor written anything since the controversy began. There is in them doubtless much merit, and while I sympathize with other southern authors who would be thrown out by such monopoly, and our fax weakhanded publishers of merit, I confess that the success of the University series of School Books might do much to elevate the tome of Southern history. I should clight to favor a series of books prepared delight to favor a series of books prepared by a combination of Southern talent, and published by the States South. In this manner we could greatly economize and would purify our literature in proportion as we compiled with the important de-mands of education. Whether this is prac-ticable, I do not answer. It seems so to me. "I say I am in favor of sectional school books because so much injustice has been books because so much injustice has been done the South as to make such necessary in self defense.
